

WHY THE MEN MUSTERED

THE ADMIRAL'S ORDER TO THE BOSTON.

The Government Unearths Another Dynamite Conspiracy—Everything Ready For a Fight.

The alarm on the Boston and Adams a few nights ago and the muster of a landing party, was noted in the STAR the day after. It then had the appearance of a fake. To-day we learn that the scare was genuine and was brought about by an unexpected order from Admiral Skerrett to a battalion of the fleet to hold itself in readiness, under command of Lieut. Lucien Young, to come ashore in Honolulu and protect American property. The Admiral acted in this matter on his own responsibility. He got the facts of a contemplated uprising from the Executive building but was not requested to intervene. The authorities simply told him because he is the senior American representative here and had a right to know.

A STAR reporter interviewed the Admiral this morning and was courteously received by that gentleman, who diplomatically advised him to put no faith whatever in rumors at any time, especially Honolulu ones. However, in response to a direct question the Admiral admitted that he had sent his aide to the Boston on Thursday evening with orders to the men of both that vessel and the Adams to hold themselves in instant readiness for any emergency. Why this important order was sent on board at a late hour the Admiral declined to state, except that he had sent it on his own responsibility, adding, "You know, the men and vessels of the United States navy are expected to be always in readiness for anything." Admiral Skerrett denied that there was any truth in the report that his action had been taken at the instance of the Provisional Government or that the Provisional Government had made any request or demand for assistance at any time. The American warships are here for the purpose of protecting American citizens and their property in case of trouble. In conclusion the Admiral said that he thought the Provisional Government was perfectly able to take care of itself without calling on outside assistance.

Pursuing the investigation further the STAR reporter came upon two stories. One was that the Royalists had been arranging to gather at Diamond Head and receive arms and ammunition which had been shipped in a schooner from the Coast; that the Government, hearing of this, had taken action itself to put down such a movement, and had sent word to the Admiral that a vessel which had broken the neutrality laws of the United States was reported off the shore and would, therefore, be fair prey for the Boston. As this tale did not have fast colors and wouldn't wash, it was dismissed to the limbo of idle Honolulu rumors.

The next story had more substance in it. Another plot to overturn the Government by the use of dynamite had been discovered and exposed. Engaged in it were several members of the old gang, and it was their purpose to blow up one or two of the public buildings and take advantage of the panic to rush in and secure the seat and symbols of administrative authority. The evidence the Government had of the progress and development of this scheme was so perfect that it took instant precaution, and had one explosion occurred all the troops, together with six hundred well-armed citizen's reserves, would have been on duty within ample time to suppress an uprising. As dynamite could not be exploded anywhere in town without damaging or destroying property of American citizens it would also have become the duty of Admiral Skerrett to intervene. Between the Provisional troops and the Boston's artillery the dynamiters would have fared badly and it is very lucky for them that their plans were divulged.

That tells the story of the sudden muster on the men-of-war so far as it can be gleaned among those who know.

RIFLES FOR HAWAII.

Shipment of Guns Supposed to be Intended for the Provisional Government.

If violence is to be the sequence of the recent revolution in Hawaii the Provisional Government desires to have the strong end of the struggle in equipment as well as in men. The Government soldiers need effective weapons, and this need is to be filled.

By the steamer Australia which sailed for Honolulu on Wednesday twelve cases of Remington rifles were sent to Hall & Son, dealers in firearms.

Several facts indicate that the soldiers under the command of President Dole will be carrying those rifles before many days. One fact is that no firearms can be admitted into Hawaii without the permission of the Government, and it is not likely at this time of uncertainty at the Islands that the Provisional Government would permit any such consignment of rifles to be imported unless the Government wanted the weapons for its own use. Another fact is that Hall & Son are known to be ardent supporters of the present Government. Another important indication tion is that the style of rifles is in favor in the United States Army. It is essentially a weapon for war. There is no demand for such rifles among the residents of the Islands, who for sporting purposes would find such weapons of little use.

Remington rifles are not needed for the small game of the Hawaiian group. The Union Metallic Cartridge Company shipped eleven of the cases of rifles, and Williams, Dimond & Co. shipped the twelve cases.

At present the army of the Provisional Government is only half armed. The shooting weapons of the soldiers are old style guns of little force compared with the modern rifle.—Examiner.

POLICE COURT MATTERS.

Judge Robertson Disposes of a Large Number of Cases To-day.

A very long calendar stared Judge Robertson in the face this morning when he took his seat on the bench of the District Court. Five or six cases were quickly disposed of by setting them for trial at dates to suit the convenience of the attorneys interested.

W. Ringer, arrested for assault and battery was discharged, a nolle prosequi being entered.

Nine drunks were fined $2 each and costs, and one forfeited $6 bail. The charge of assault and battery against J. Lario was dismissed.

Charles McKee and H. Logan were found guilty of assault and battery and fined $5 each and costs. Kahololo and Isobe received the same fine for a similar offense.

The balance of the morning session was taken up with the trial of the case of Ah On, Reilly, Akana and Kaliahou, charged with assault and battery on Ah Ping, which had not been concluded when the Court adjourned for lunch.

This case was still on trial at 3 P.M.

JURIES AND LIBEL.

A Card From Judge Hartwell Upon Topics of Current Interest.

EDITOR STAR: An anonymous person sends me this morning an extract from a city newspaper, commenting on the Hawaiian jury system, as if intimating that I was the writer of some newspaper articles which have recently appeared on the subject. All my communications to the press have, for several years, been over my signature.

The system of a petty jury, with no grand jury, is often unsatisfactory, but perhaps a grand jury might be open to still graver objections. I have never liked the mixed jury system or a jury divided according to the nationality of parties. I am of the opinion that it would tend to better feeling and better results in every case, whether the parties should be aboriginal Hawaiians or persons of foreign extraction, if the trial jury were composed of persons drawn by lot from the jury list, the jury list being composed of certain proportions of persons of all nationalities.

In regard to libel prosecutions, I suggest that if every warrant issued at the request or complaint of a private person required that costs be advanced by the complainant for payment of expenses in case of failure to sustain his complaint, and that the complainant be held liable in damages in case of withdrawing or failing to sustain his complaint, there would be no unnecessary public prosecutions for libel.

JAPS AND OUR SUFFRAGE.

COL. BLOUNT ASSERTED THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

News Which Was Kept Under Cover for Some Time—The Government Very Reticent.

The fact that Hawaiian news of an important and decisive character often makes its first appearance here in the correspondence columns of San Francisco dailies, is one that has been frequently noted. This does not imply that the Honolulu journals are asleep, or that they do not have a nose for news. It is their misfortune, not their fault, that so much goes by them. They are continually hounded and besieged by people of influence in local affairs to omit this or suppress that, and by yielding to the importunities, find themselves scooped and beaten once a fortnight by the unmuzzled and unimpeded reporters of the Coast.

The most important news of the present month has never seen print in Honolulu, though it is known to a hundred people or more and has been a subject of rumor and gossip on the street. By the next mail, or possibly the one thereafter, it will all be spread before this public in the Associated Press telegrams of a fortnight's previous date—whereas the usual sneer will be heard in Honolulu editorial rooms that the majority of the people of this city are compelled to depend on newspapers printed 2000 miles away to learn what has been going on among themselves.

Three weeks ago it was known that Japan was again pressing the Provisional Government in a sharp and coercive manner for the concession of the franchise, and the idea got about that Uncle Sam had intervened to protect the Hawaiian interest. Some of the correspondents got hold of the story and sent it away; but when reporters or the STAR interviewed members of the Government about it they were met by a unanimous request to hush up and confine themselves to innocuous narration of cheva cases in the District Court and of the success that has been made in grafting the Upas tree on the common taro root of commerce.

The STAR had knocked over all the canons of journalism twice by withholding the facts about the Royalist management of the Custom House with regard to kite-flown checks and of the inability of a leading member of the ex-Queen's cabinet to make good the drafts he had drawn on Hawaiian funds in the hands of the late Consul-General McKinley for the expenses of his family abroad—a brace of scandals which San Francisco journals would have spread over their first pages with ample illustration. Inasmuch as these seemed to be concessions enough to the ancient and accepted Honolulu idea that a paper should be known by what it does not print, the STAR reporters were told to take up the Japanese question, find out what the correspondents had sent away and compare it with the facts already in their keeping. The result was somewhat surprising.

It appears that when the fresh Japanese demands were received, the Provisional Government called United States Minister Blount into consultation and showed him the correspondence. This, it is said, contained an intimation that Japan, in the event of a final refusal of the Provisional Government to grant the voting privilege to its subjects on the same terms as are given people of European, Hawaiian and American allegiance, would withdraw all its laborers from this group. When Mr. Blount read this he laughed heartily, and on returning to the legation penned a note to the Foreign Office to the effect that the United States would not permit the Hawaiian Government to grant the Japanese demand, even if it should be so inclined. The exact word was not permitted but "allow." "My Government will not allow such a proceeding," said the American Minister.

It has been impossible to get an interpretation from the Government as to this action, the Ministers saying that they would not discuss a diplomatic affair in the local prints. There is but one view to take of it, however, and that is the purpose it shows on the part of the United States to keep foreign hands off the domestic concerns of the group. There the matter rests. Japan says that Hawaii must extend the suffrage. America says that she must not.

CIRCUIT COURT PROCEEDINGS.

A Number of Chinese Sentenced this Morning.

This was "sentence day" in the Circuit Court and five Chinese took possession of the anxious seat at the opening of the Court this morning. Ah Kwei, found guilty of the unlawful possession of opium, was sentenced to imprisonment for one month. Chow Yee and Ah Hin, who were found guilty of assault and battery, each received six months, while Ah Tai, who pleaded guilty to the same offense, got off with a fine of $100. Ah Kai and Ah Kwei, both opium fiends, were given one month imprisonment each, and the court took a recess till 10 o'clock to await the arrival of the jury. At 10 o'clock the following jury was impaneled for the trial of Patrick

Conly, who is charged with the manslaughter of a fellow seaman on the bark Matilda some weeks since: J. J. Sullivan, J. K. Wilder, S. G. Wilder, Tom May, J. J. Egan, Thomas S. Douglass, F. S. Wicke, George W. Farr, Henry Davis, W. F. Love, C. J. McCarthy and H. F. Wichman. Up to the hour of going to press the prosecution had examined as witnesses Dr. C. Peterson, J. Kaliakepuna, A. McGuinn, G. K. Wilder and Tjergeisen. The trial will last all the afternoon.
